

Exciting Opportunity for Early Career Pain Researchers in the Temerty Faculty of Medicine

About UTCSP

The University of Toronto Centre for the Study of Pain (UTCSP) is located at the University of Toronto under the collaborative partnership and leadership of the Faculties of Medicine, Nursing, Dentistry, and Pharmacy. The vision of this partnership is to be a key academic voice and a leader, both nationally and internationally, in pain research and education and to create and disseminate knowledge on pain and inform clinical excellence through interdisciplinary collaboration.

Your Opportunity

The University of Toronto Centre for the Study of Pain is posting a call for the next UTCSP Scientist from the Temerty Faculty of Medicine. This opportunity aims to foster research excellence and scholarship that will further the work of UTCSP in advancing our understanding of the mechanisms of pain and its alleviation.

The successful candidate will receive one-time funding of $100,000. Funds will be administered by the Faculty and are intended to support the awardee's research program and can also be used towards partial reimbursement for your salary and benefits (max 25% of award) to protect time for research. The successful candidates will be expected to be an active member of the UTCSP, contributing to and participating in the ongoing activities when possible. This includes actively serving on a UTCSP committee (e.g., Research, Education, Knowledge translation) and contributing to the Interfaculty Pain Curriculum through program development and delivery (e.g., steering committee, program development working group, pain case facilitator).
